

23 responses

View all responses Publish analytics

Summary

I feel comfortable justifying recommendations/advice face-to-face with more senior people. Multiple Answer

Strongly Agree	6	26%
Agree	16	70%
Disagree	1	4%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

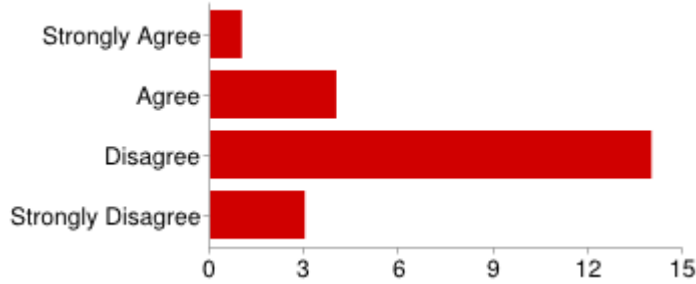

I feel comfortable explaining an issue to people who are unfamiliar with the topic

Strongly Agree	11	50%
Agree	10	45%

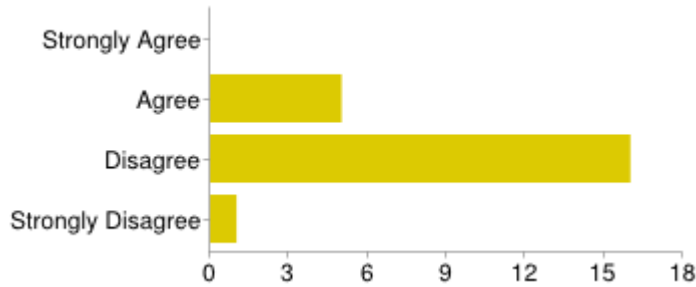

Disagree	1	5%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I have difficulty in adapting my communication style (oral and written) to particular situations and audiences

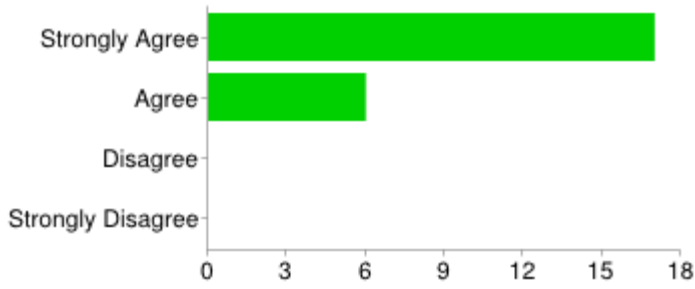

Strongly Agree	1	5%
Agree	4	18%
Disagree	14	64%
Strongly Disagree	3	14%

I prefer to stay quiet when other people in a group express opinions that I don't agree with

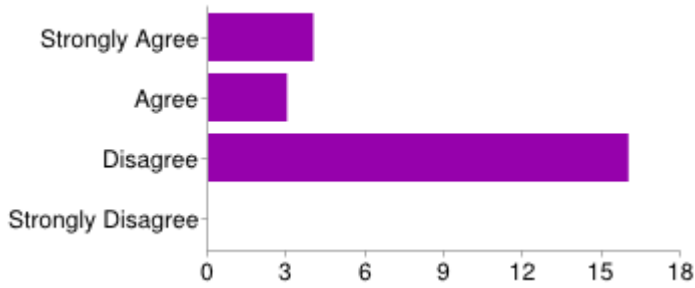

Strongly Agree	0	0%
Agree	5	23%
Disagree	16	73%
Strongly Disagree	1	5%

I feel comfortable working in a group

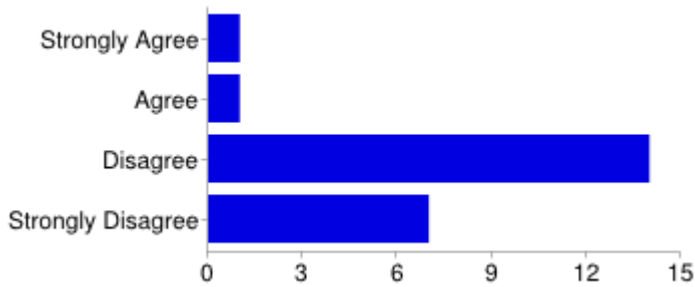

Strongly Agree	17	74%
Agree	6	26%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I feel uncomfortable putting forward my personal opinions in a group

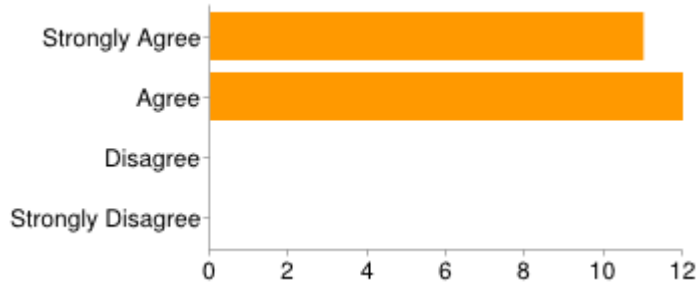

Strongly Agree	4	17%
Agree	3	13%
Disagree	16	70%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I feel uncomfortable taking the lead in a group

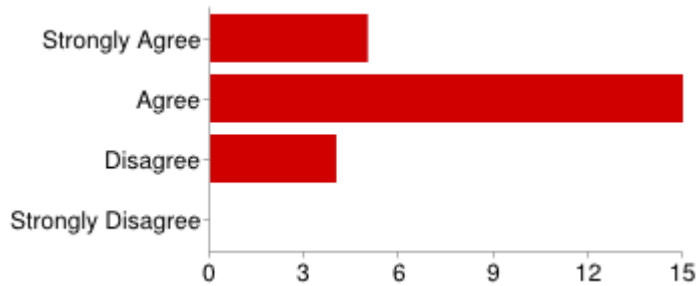

Strongly Agree	1	4%
Agree	1	4%
Disagree	14	61%
Strongly Disagree	7	30%

I am able to become quickly involved in new teams and groups

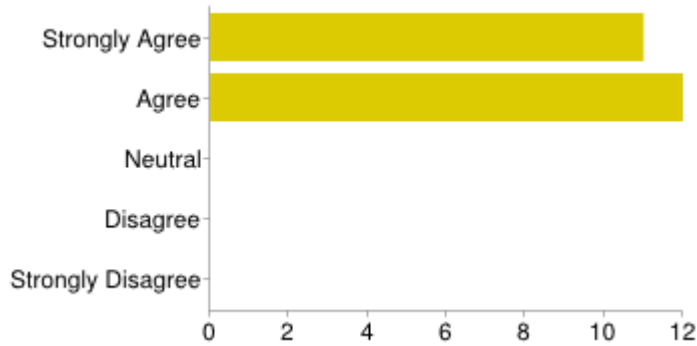

Strongly Agree	11	48%
Agree	12	52%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I am comfortable expressing my own opinions in a group, even when I know that other people don't agree with them

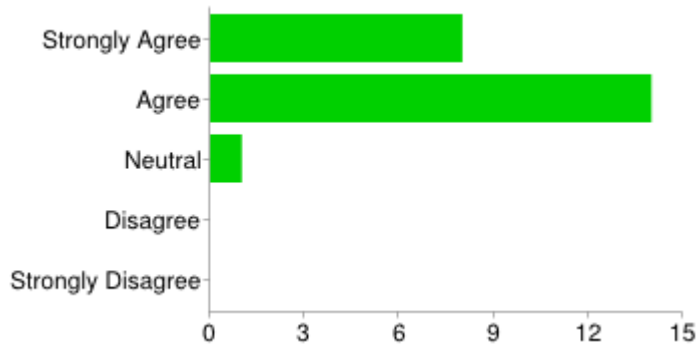

Strongly Agree	5	21%
Agree	15	63%
Disagree	4	17%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

My skills in communicating with patients/clients would be improved through learning with students from other health and social care professions

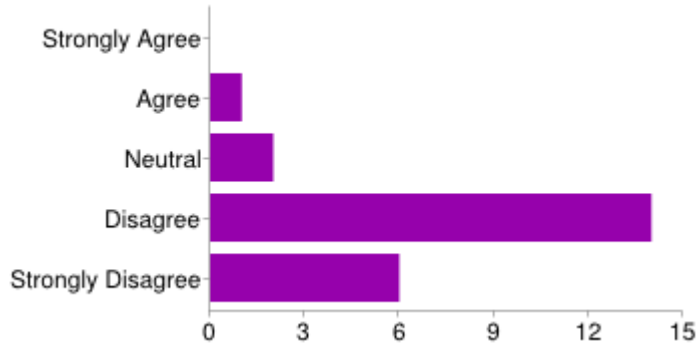

Strongly Agree	11	48%
Agree	12	52%
Neutral	0	0%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

My skills in communicating with other health and social care professions would be improved through learning with students from other health and social care professions

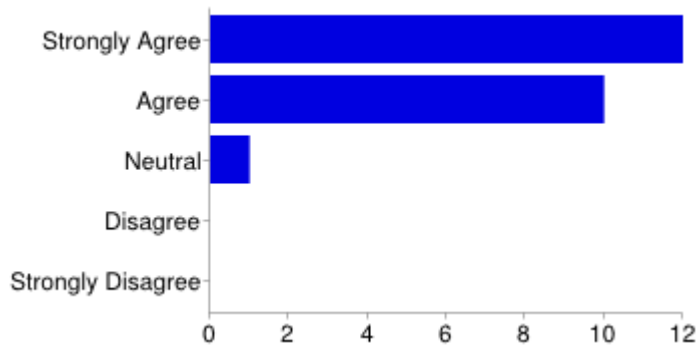

Strongly Agree	8	35%
Agree	14	61%
Neutral	1	4%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I would prefer to learn only with peers from my own profession

Strongly Agree	0	0%
Agree	1	4%
Neutral	2	9%
Disagree	14	61%
Strongly Disagree	6	26%

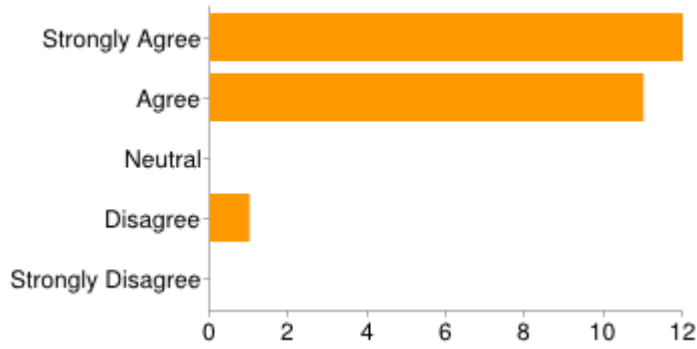

Learning with students from other health and social care professions is likely to facilitate subsequent working professional relationships

Strongly Agree	12	52%
Agree	10	43%
Neutral	1	4%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

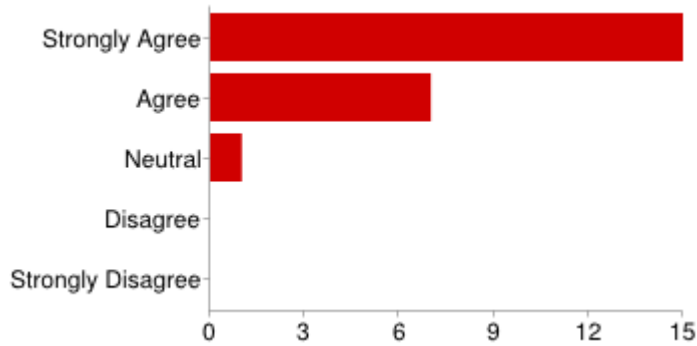

Learning with students from other health and social care professions would be more beneficial to improving my teamwork skills than learning only with my peers

Strongly Agree	12	50%
Agree	11	46%
Neutral	0	0%
Disagree	1	4%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

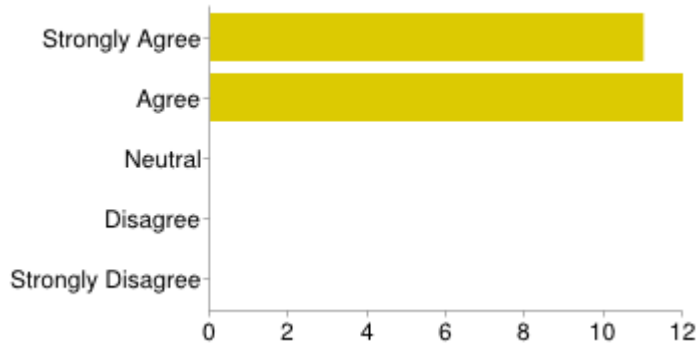

Collaborative learning would be a positive learning experience for all health and social care students

Strongly Agree	15	65%
Agree	7	30%
Neutral	1	4%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

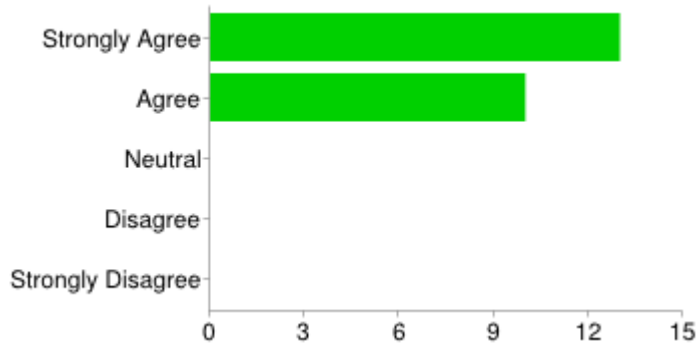

Learning with students from other health and social care professions is likely to help overcome stereotypes that are held about the different professions

Strongly Agree	11	48%
Agree	12	52%
Neutral	0	0%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

I would enjoy the opportunity to learn with students from other health and social care professions

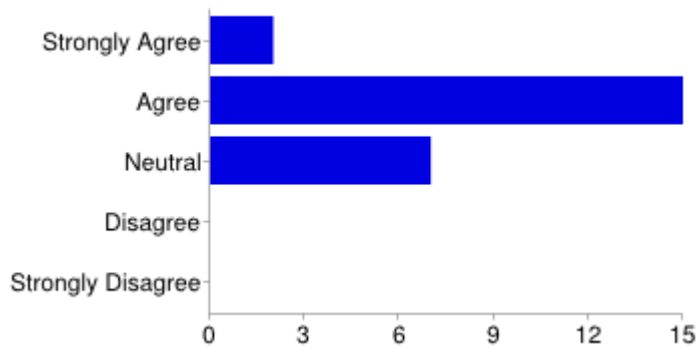

Strongly Agree	13	57%
Agree	10	43%
Neutral	0	0%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Learning with students from other health and social care professions is likely to improve the service for patients/clients

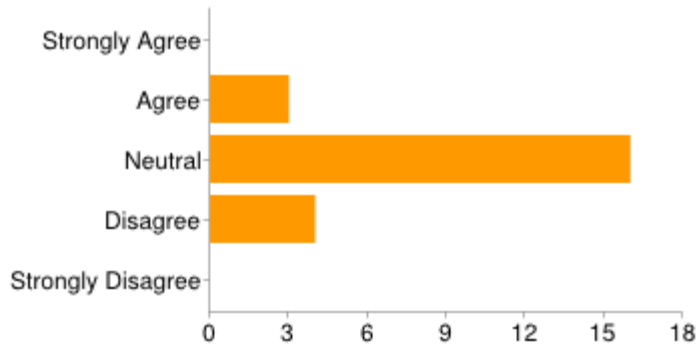

Strongly Agree	15	63%
Agree	9	38%
Neutral	0	0%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Different health and social care professionals have stereotyped views of each other

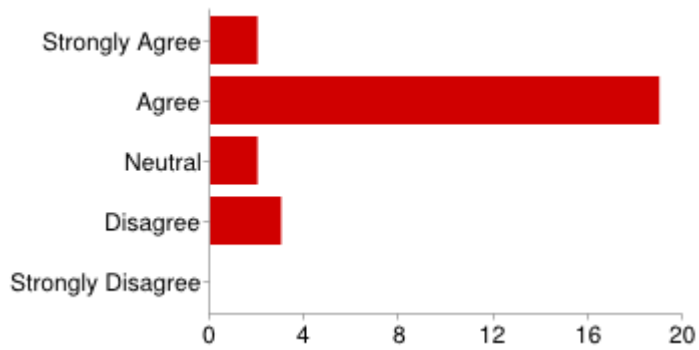

Strongly Agree	2	8%
Agree	15	63%
Neutral	7	29%
Disagree	0	0%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

The line of communication between all members of the health and social care professions is open

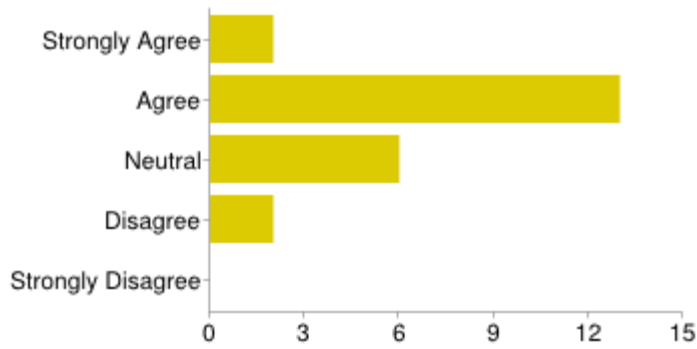

Strongly Agree	0	0%
Agree	3	13%
Neutral	16	70%
Disagree	4	17%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

There is a status hierarchy in health and social care that affects the relationships between professionals

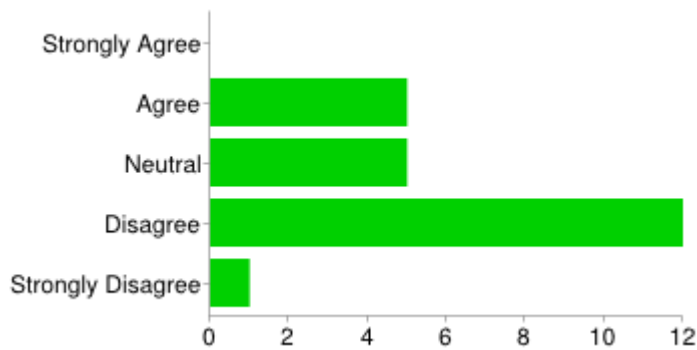

Strongly Agree	2	8%
Agree	19	73%
Neutral	2	8%
Disagree	3	12%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Different health and social care professionals are biased in their views of each other

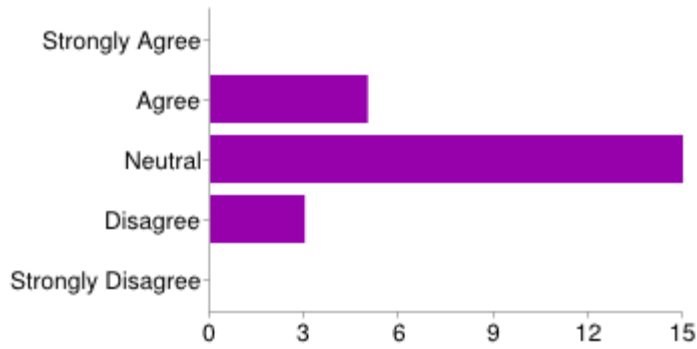

Strongly Agree	2	9%
Agree	13	57%
Neutral	6	26%
Disagree	2	9%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

All members of health and social care professions have equal respect for each discipline

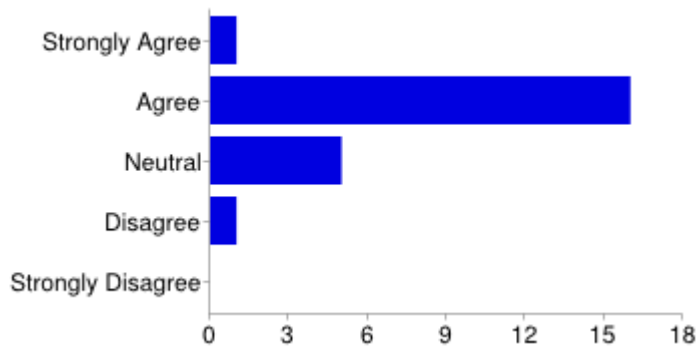

Strongly Agree	0	0%
Agree	5	22%
Neutral	5	22%
Disagree	12	52%
Strongly Disagree	1	4%

It is easy to communicate openly with people from other health and social care disciplines

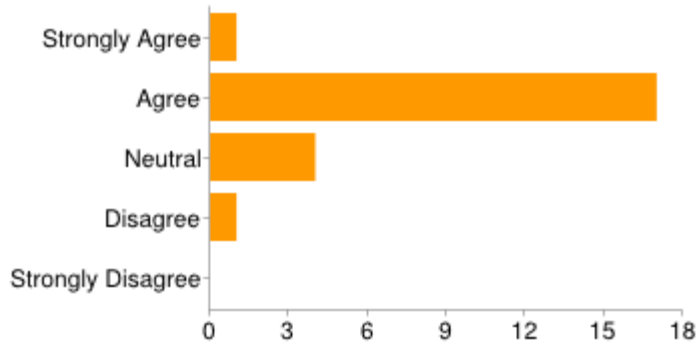

Strongly Agree	0	0%
Agree	5	22%
Neutral	15	65%
Disagree	3	13%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Not all relationships between health and social care professionals are equal

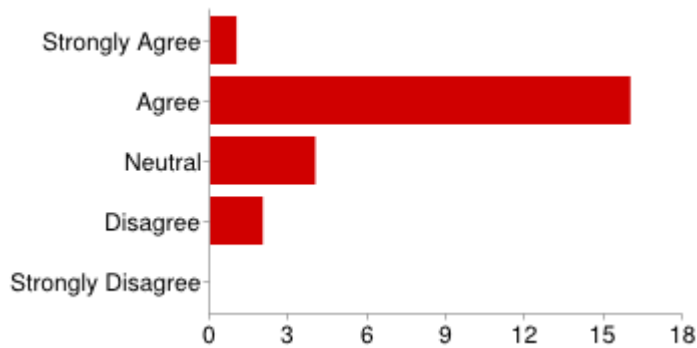

Strongly Agree	1	4%
Agree	16	70%
Neutral	5	22%
Disagree	1	4%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Health and social care professionals do not always communicate openly with one another

Strongly Agree	1	4%
Agree	17	74%
Neutral	4	17%
Disagree	1	4%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Different health and social care professionals are not always cooperative with one another

Strongly Agree	1	4%
Agree	16	70%
Neutral	4	17%
Disagree	2	9%
Strongly Disagree	0	0%

Amazon Gift Card Drawing